SEED CORN

Now that the corn crop has all been cut and much of it shucked and sold, the farmers should begin to investigate for their seed corn for the coming year. It has been demonstrated, and never more forcibly than the past season, that the best seed corn must be planted to get the best yields and the soundest ear. Selections should be made carefully, and the corn dried out in a thorough manner. This is the first move toward success in corn growing; then should follow preparation of the soil. The day has passed away when corn can be planted in the way of the forefathers and the best yields obtained. Study and the selection of the seed, followed by the scientific cultivation will make you many dollars, and we hope that ere another year rolls round, many of the Montgomery county farmers will take up the late methods and improve their crops as well as replenish their pocket-book. The successful farmer and corn grower of the future will be the wide-awake, scientific man. Will you be one of them?

SCATTER MANURE

At this warm season when many tobacco growers claim that the weed is too dry to strip, there is one thing they can do that will pay them handsome returns, haul manure and spread it on the land. In the county are hundreds of barns of manure, some of them knee deep, that are being left for stock to use when bad weather sets in, that, if hauled now will pay larger returns in next years crop and the benefits to land than bank stock. There is nothing in the world that enriches soil like barnyard manure, and while you are setting around cussing the weather, you had better get busy and hitch up your old team and get to work. It will pay the tenant as well as the landlord, and neither can afford to let the opportunity to pass to reap the benefits which this work is bound to bring about. A manure spreader is the best thing to use, but if you haven't that, use the farm wagon, and do it now.

APPOINTED DELEGATE

Gov. McCreary has appointed Col. S. M. Newmeyer, of Mt. Sterling, as a delegate from Kentucky to the International Congress at Berlin, Germany, on January 23, 1914.

He who sheds a tear of real sympathy declares thereby that he would shed his blood as soon, for that dear object of his love.

BEN MYERS MARRIES

Mr. Ben Myers, of Jackson, Miss., and Miss Mayme Tucker, of Winchester, were married at the home of the bride's parents in the latter city Wednesday in the presence of only the immediate families. They left immediately for a trip South and will make their home at Jackson. The wedding is of much interest here where Mr. Myers made his home for several years and was local agent for the Standard Oil Co. He later removed to Winchester and about one year ago was made traveling representative for his company and went to Jackson to live. Mr. Myers endeared himself to a wide circle of friends here by his gentlemanly bearing. His bride is said to be a very lovely and popular young lady.

NEW BUYER

W. Caldwell Clay has closed a contract with the E. J. O'Brien Company, of Louisville, to purchase tobacco for them on the local markets this year, and was on the market on Monday at the opening sale. Mr. Clay will make a good buyer and the entrance of the O'Brien Company on the local market means much to this market, as it puts a purchaser for the low grades on the market, which will give strong competition on these grades, which have heretofore sold for a song.

REV. HIBSHMAN RESIGNS

Quite a surprise was occasioned here last week when it was announced that Rev. A. H. Hibshman, pastor of the Presbyterian church, had tendered his resignation to take effect on March 1. Rev. Hibshman has been pastor of the church here for several years and is one of the most popular preachers in Mt. Sterling. He has accomplished much good here during his pastorate and it is with sincere regret that he will leave this city.

ATTENTION, POULTRY RAISERS.

One of my show birds had the worst case of roup I ever saw. She was almost dead before I noticed it. I purchased a bottle of Bourbon Poultry Cure and I took a feather and dipped it into the medicine and swabbed out her throat as far down as I could reach. I also put a liberal quantity in her soft feed and drinking water, and today she is well and sound and is laying nearly every day. It is certainly the most remarkable medicine I ever saw. I would not think of being without it and I hope to induce other poultrymen to keep it on hand constantly. —Joseph VanZiegler, State Vice President and Life Member of American Buff Plymouth Rock Club, of Indiana, and proprietor of Golden Glow Poultry Yards, 221 W. LEGISLATOR-ELECT DIES

The Grim Reaper has already invaded the ranks of the incoming Legislature, the Rev. James A. Scott, Representative-elect from Greenup county, having died of typhoid fever last week at his home in Greenup. Mr. Scott, who was elected as a Republican at the recent election by a close margin over J. W. Sutton, his Democratic opponent, would have had the unique distinction had he lived, of being the only preacher in either branch of the General Assembly. A special election will be required to select his successor.

AT CHICAGO SHOW

Among the exhibitors who will show fine stock at the International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago, November 29th to December 7th, will be Mr. Hughes Atkinson of this county, whose celebrated Hampshire swine have more than once been heard from in the big show, and who expects this year to meet with greater success than ever.

MISS SOUTHGATE WEDS

The marriage of Miss Elinore Southgate, of Lexington, to Mr. Thomas Evans Early, of Dawson Springs, was celebrated at the home of the bride's father, Rev. E. L. Southgate, in Lexington, last Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. John R. Deering, officiating. The wedding is of much interest here, where the bride made her home, when Rev. Southgate was pastor of the local Methodist church.
